Description

This Standard specifies means of identifying the contents of pipes, conduits, ducts and sheathing used to contain fluids, or for the distribution of electrical or communications services in land installations and on board ships, by the use of colours, words and symbols.

Scope

This Standard is not intended to apply to buried or normally inaccessible services. However, the general principles may be applied when considering those services.

Note: It is recognized that application of this Standard to buried services may present difficulties and for this reason only general guidance is offered.
