Description

These regulations, which come into force on 1 February 2010, define the minor variations that may be made to a building consent for the purposes of section 45A of the Building Act 2004. That section provides, amongst other things, that an application for a minor variation does not have to be made in the prescribed form and the building consent authority that grants a minor variation does not have to issue an amended building consent for it.
